INTRODUCTION

The several municipalities included in this work are situated in the southern part of Hancock County, Maine; Eden, Mount Desert, Southwest Harbor and Tremont, all on the Island of Mount Desert, and the Cranberry Isles, a few miles off the entrance to Somes Sound.

The region in which they lie is one of the most picturesque in our country, and it is rich in scenery of unusual wildness and grandeur. It combines in a wonderful manner the attractions of ocean and mountain, and abounds in beautiful valleys and lakes, which appeal irresistibly to every lover of the beautiful in Nature.

Against the islands' rugged cliffs and massive headlands, still bold and steep in their primeval grandeur, the waters of the ocean chafe in swelling surges and hurl themselves high into the air, while towering high toward the heavens the mountains loom aloft, straight almost from the level of the sea, to form the highest elevations in eastern Maine. Over all, the clouds in their exquisite tints, and wonderful harmony of color, blend and change at evening, while the broken, barren mountains, slowly soften into blue, to become at sunset a wonderful glory of crimson, amethyst and gold.

Centuries ago, the Indians made this beautiful region a favorite resort; to this spot, too, nearly three centuries ago, came the French Jesuit missionaries and their fellow voyagers, when they sought new fields to conquer for the glory of God and of France; here, also, in the wars for the supremacy of the continent, the French and English found a suitable centre of rendezvous for their men and ships.

The French and Indian wars having been ended by the treaty of peace which followed Wolfe's victory over Montcalm on the Plains of Abraham, the shores of Mount Desert remained untrodden for a period of many years, until, at length, a permanent settlement was made not long after the middle of the eighteenth century, by pioneers from Massachusetts Bay.

The purpose of this register is not to attempt an entirely new and minutely detailed account of the romantic and stirring history of Mount Desert, but to condense the most important facts into the space of one or two hundred pages, compact and readily accessible, that the history and family directory, with the cottage and business directories may serve as a ready-reference register of these towns.

We wish to acknowledge our indebtedness for historical data to the excellent manuscripts of Mr. Eben L. Hamor, the historian of Eden, to the late Rev. George E. Street's comprehensive and intensely interesting "Mount Desert, a History," to the records of the Maine Historical Society, to the Maine Register, the town and church records, and those of the Adjutant-General of Maine, and to all the various sources from which these facts have been derived.

To those who gave their subscriptions for the book, and to the business men, who aided us by their advertisements, to make the work financially successful, we extend our thanks. We trust they will find the Register what we have endeavored to make it—something of interest and of value.

INDIAN ACCOUNT

The Indians of eastern Maine were related by tribal connections and by language to the Algonquin nation which occupied most of the northern and eastern parts of the continent. East of the Saco river these tribes were called the Abenaki, though the English colonists often referred to them as the Tarratines. According to Ventromile, the Jesuit missionary, the proper form of Abenaki is Wabanaki, meaning "the people of the place where the sky begins to look white in the morning," or "the people of the East."

The people of the Abenaki nation were divided into several tribes, each of which had its own villages and lands. The Sokoki lived about the Saco river and Casco bay, the Norridgewocks on the upper Kennebec, the Penobscots on the Penobscot river, and two tribes known to the early French in this section as the Etchemins and Malecites, farther to the east. Parkman's description of the life of these tribes is as follows: "In habits they were all much alike. Their villages were on the waters of the Androscoggin, the Saco, the Kennebec, the Penobscot, the St. Croix and the St. John; here in spring they planted their corn, beans and pumpkins, and then, leaving them to grow, went down to the sea in their birch canoes. They returned towards the end of the summer, gathered their harvest, and went again to the sea, where they lived in abundance on ducks, geese, and other water-fowl. During winter, most of the women, children and old men remained in the villages, while the hunters ranged the forests in chase of moose, deer, caribou, beavers and bears."

Though all of one nation and language, the Abenaki were constantly engaged in civil war. Biard's interpreters who accompanied him on the voyage of 1611, Indians of the Penobscot or Pasamaquoddy tribes, refused to accompany him beyond Monhegan, because their foes dwelt to the westward.

In the eighty-five years between 1675 and 1760 there were thirty-six years of open and bitter warfare between the French and Indians on the one hand and the English settlers on the other. When peace intervened it was scarcely more than a temporary armed truce.

The conflict between the English and the French who were aided by their Indian allies was but the echo of the greater wars which shook the continent of Europe. In this country, it was not so much a succession of military campaigns as a series of massacres and pillages finding cause not only in the European wars that engaged the mother countries but also in the local rivalries, hostilities and racial hate.

The bitterness of the Abenaki tribes toward the English is explained by the fact that the latter usurped their lands, and treated them with cruelty. They became the allies of the French and the implacable foes of the English because the former treated them as friends and equals, "opened their eyes to religion, gave them good weight in trade," were honest and fair; whereas, on the other hand, the English frequently robbed and killed them, though it cannot be denied that the latter often had just cause.

Foray after foray, massacre after massacre, pillage and flame ravaged the little settlements in Maine for more than a hundred years. When the final peace came the Penobscots had dwindled into insignificance and their united bands could muster only seventy-three warriors. It is significant that the first English settlers in this section in 1761 and later, make no mention of Indians in this vicinity.

The Founding of Saint Sauveur

The island of Mount Desert is included in the region which was the earliest occupied in New England. This section of Maine, in the earliest years of our history, was under the jurisdiction of France, and, with Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, bore the general name of Acadia.

Sullivan, the first historian of Maine, who wrote in 1795, says: "In Acadia there was another territory, east of the County of Newcastle, which was not comprehended in the duke's Province of New York. This was, perhaps, the ancient Norumbega. It extended from Pemaquid to St. Croix, comprehending Mount Mansel or Mount Desert, and the territory of Penobscot." (Sul. History of Maine, 293).

The first settlement in Norumbega was made in 1604, on a small island near the head of Passamaquoddy Bay, when the chevalier De Monts, with his followers, having erected a fort, chapel, and dwelling houses, passed a winter there. The hardships which they suffered were so severe, however, that of seventy-nine persons, only forty remained alive in the spring. In the summer of 1605 De Monts abandoned the settlement and after a voyage along the coast and a visit to Port Royal he returned to France. The colonists removed to Port Royal, and De Monts abandoned his attempt to plant a colony in Norumbega.

In 1607, Henry IV confirmed the transfer of De Mont's right to Port Royal to M. de Poutrincourt, and while the latter was making arrangements in behalf of his colony, an order came to him from the King to make preparation for a mission of the Jesuits there.

The Society of Jesus, which had been founded by Ignatius de Loyola in 1534, was at that time pushing forward with zeal the movement sometimes known as the Catholic or Counter-Reformation, which had, on the one hand, the purpose of checking the Protestant Revolt and winning back to the church those portions of Europe which had been influenced by the Protestant movement, and on the other, that of preaching the gospel to all non-Christian peoples. The heathenism of the American Indians accordingly prompted the Jesuits to make great sacrifices and to endure terrible hardships that the savages might be brought into the Christian fold.

When the zealous Professor, Father Pierre Biard, learned of Poutrincourt's plans to found a colony at Port Royal, he conceived the idea of establishing a mission there. Several years elapsed, however, before Fathers Biard and Enemond Masse were permitted to set out from France, as the Huguenot merchants who held as security the ship in which they wished to sail, refused to permit them to embark. Finally, through the efforts of the Marchioness de Guercheville, wife of the Governor of Paris, the claims of the Huguenots were paid, and the Jesuits together with young Biancourt, son of Poutrincourt, to whom charge of the colony at Port Royal had been given, set out upon their voyage. They arrived at their destination June 22, 1611, and within a month afterward Poutrincourt sailed for France, never to return.

Ill-feeling arose between the clergy and the Governor, which resulted in a separation and, in consequence of this, the Marchioness de Guercheville, who had become proprietor of all Acadia except Port Royal, resolved to establish a mission in another quarter where there would be no danger of intervention on the part of Biancourt.

Enlisting a number of high personages in the enterprise, she fitted out a vessel of a hundred tons' burden, and placed the expedition under the charge of Sieur La Saussaye, whom she had selected for Governor of the colony. The place fixed upon for a settlement was Kadesquit, which, it is thought, was Kenduskeag, the site of the present city of Bangor.

There were fifty persons in the company, among them the Jesuits, Father Quentin, a priest, and M. du Thet. The ship sailed from Honfleur, March 12, 1613, under command of Charles Flory de Hableville, and made for Port Royal, which it reached on the twenty-second of June. After a delay of five days, the members of the company again embarked, taking with them Fathers Biard and Masse, and set sail for their final destination. When off Grand Menan, however, a dense fog shut down upon the ship and for two days and nights they drifted upon the treacherous currents of the Bay of Fundy, and, finally, out to sea. "Our tribulation," says Father Biard, "led us to pray to God to deliver us from danger, and send us to some place where we might contribute to His glory. He heard us, in His mercy, for on the same evening we began to discover the stars, and in the morning the fog had cleared away. We then discovered that we were near the coast of Mount Desert, an island which the savages called Pemetie. The pilot steered towards the eastern shore, and landed us in a large and beautiful harbor. We returned thanks to God, elevating the cross, and singing praises with the holy Sacrifice of the Mass. We named the place and harbor Saint Sauveur."

The exact place of their landing is not known, but it is thought that since it was on the "eastern shore," and in a "large and beautiful harbor," and since we learn from Father Biard's narrative that it was several leagues (approximately nine miles) to the Indian village, which is known to have been located at the entrance of Somes Sound, the conclusion is reached that, probably, the voyagers landed in the neighborhood of Bar Harbor.

The pilgrims did not intend to remain long on Mount Desert, so Father Biard had an interview with the Indians for the purpose of obtaining information in regard to the route to Kadesquit. The natives had met the Father two years before at Pentagoet and knowing him they urged him to settle on Mount Desert which they said was "quite as good a place as Kadesquit," that it was so healthy that it was the resort of invalids who regained their health there. The Jesuits, however, could not be persuaded to remain until the savages, appealing to the humanity and religion of the missionaries, urged them to visit their chief. "It is important," they said, "that you should come, inasmuch as Asticou, our Sagamore, is sick unto death, and if you do not come he will die without Baptism and will not go to Heaven; you will be the cause. On his part, he wishes to be baptised." Moved by this appeal, Father Biard consented to go; and with Sieur de la Motte, mate of the Jonas, and Simon, the interpreter, he was taken to the village in a canoe.

The illness of the chief proved nothing but a pretext, the wily savages having made use of the device to induce the priest view the place where they wished him to settle, hoping that he would be tempted by its attractiveness and beauty. The device was quite successful, for the point opposite the village seemed so ideal a place for the mission that Father Biard persuaded the leaders of the expedition to examine it. They did so, and it was unanimously agreed to "stop there and seek no further."

Father Biard describes the place of settlement as "a pretty colline, elevated above the sea, and bathed on its sides by two springs. There are from twenty-five to thirty acres, covered with grass, which, in some places, reaches the height of a man. It fronts the south and east. The soil is rich and fertile. The harbor is as safe as a pond, for besides being separated from the large island of Mount Desert, it is also separated from certain small islets which break the winds and the waves and fortify the entrance. There is no fleet for which it would not be sufficient, nor vessel which could not approach the land to unload within a cable's length."

Fernald's Point at the entrance of Somes Island so closely corresponds to this description that all the authorities agree that it was there that the French settlement was made.

The ship was moored in the harbor, the supplies were landed, and the immigrants disembarked. Almost immediately a controversy arose between the governor and the missionaries, as to whether they should attend first to agriculture or to the erection of fortifications. La Saussaye wished to provide against want; the Jesuits against attack. Other differences followed and little was accomplished. The dissensions were brought to an untimely end, however, in a manner most unfortunate for the colony.

In accordance with the custom of the English settlers in Virginia, a fishing fleet had been sent north to fish in the waters off the Maine coast. This fleet was under the convoy of Samuel Argall in the Treasurer, a ship carrying sixty men and fourteen guns. Argall was an enterprising but unscrupulous man who had come to Virginia from England to engage in sturgeon fishing. This was an illicit business, but Argall purchased silence from the colonists with bribes, and enjoyed immunity from punishment.

On this expedition, fraught, as it afterwards proved, with such ill fortune for the French on Mount Desert, Argall had been instructed by Sir Thomas Dale, then Governor of Virginia, to expel any French and Dutch people he might find trading within his jurisdiction, of which he considered Acadia to form a part.

Argall's vessel was cruising in the Gulf of Maine, when some Indians came on board the ship, in a fog, and innocently told him that a number of his "Norman" countrymen were establishing a settlement at Pematic. The wily Englishman, detaining one of the Indians for a pilot, set all sail for the "safe" harbor of the French, and soon swooped down upon the settlers in Somes Sound. Argall wasted no time in carrying out his purpose, but at once made an attack. Father

Biard's narrative of the fight which ensued, is as follows :

“Now, we, beholding the vessel coming under full sail from a distance, did not know what to think, whether they were friends or enemies, Frenchmen or foreigners, for this reason—the pilot went in advance in a long boat, to reconnoitre, while the others armed themselves. La Saussaye remained on shore, and retained there most of his men. La Motte, lieutenant, Bonfere, ensign, and Joubert, sergeant, all the most resolute, went to the vessel. Thus it was, then, that one could recognize men of value.

“The English vessel came more rapidly than an arrow, having a good wind—all the soldiers clothed in scarlet, the English colors flying, and three drums and trumpets making a furious noise. Our pilot, who had gone to make discoveries, did not return with the vessel, because, he said, the English were to windward of him, and, consequently, in order not to fall into their hands, he made the circuit of an island. On this occasion, therefore, our vessel was destitute of half its crew, and for the defense there were only ten in all, and not any of them knew anything about sea fights, except Capt. Flory, who was not wanting in ability and courage, but he had neither sufficient time to prepare himself, nor sufficient men; on account of which he was not able to weigh anchor, the sails being used for another purpose. As it was summer, and as we remained in this harbor without fear, we had extended the sails in the form of a bower, from the poop to the windlass, in order to have a shade upon the deck, and there was not sufficient time to bend them. But this misfortune was lucky for us, as our men remained very well concealed during the combat, in such manner that the English, not being able to pick out any one during their volleys, less of our men were killed and wounded.

“At the approach, as it is the custom to call and ask who one is, our people cried out, according to the custom of mariners, ‘O! O!’ But the English did not respond in this tone, but in another more furious, with heavy discharges of muskets and cannon. They had fourteen pieces of artillery and sixty musketeers connected with the ship, who came to the charge upon the sides, upon the bowsprit, upon the poop and wherever it was necessary, like a line of soldiers and in order, as well as foot soldiers do upon the land.

“The first volley from the English side was terrible; the whole vessel was in fire and smoke. From our side we responded coldly, and the artillery was silent. Captain Flory cried loudly:

“ ‘Fire the cannon! Let it go!’

“But the gunner was not there. Now Gilbert du Thet, who was never faint-hearted in his life, nor a coward, hearing this cry and seeing no one obey, took the match and caused our cannon to speak as loud as the enemy’s. The misfortune was that he did not take aim, and if he had done so there would have been, perhaps, something more than noise.

“The English, after this first volley, laid their vessel alongside and kept an anchor ready to hook the bits of our cable, which stopped the enemy and caused him to cut off from our side, for he feared in pursuing us to be drawn into shoal water; then, becoming re-assured, he again commanded to approach us with a volley of musquetry as before. It seems, in this second attack, that Father du Thet received a musket ball through the body and fell upon the deck. Captain Flory was also wounded in the foot, and three others elsewhere, which caused us to give the signal and to cry that we would surrender, as certainly the match was not equal. At this cry, the English jumped into our boat in order to come to our vessel; our men also, from an unlucky resolution, threw themselves into their own to make for the shore, for they feared the arrival of the victors. The conqueror was on board our vessel before they had gone far, and prayed and called to them to return, and, to constrain them, fired upon them. Being frightened, two of our men cast themselves into the water, by my advice, to gain the shore, but they were drowned. Either they were wounded, or, what is more probable, they were struck and killed in the water. These were two young men of good expectations, one from Dieppe, called Le Moine; the other named Neveu, of the city of Beauvais. Their bodies were not found until nine days afterward. They were taken and religiously interred. Such was the capture of our vessel."

Following his victory, Argall landed, and having found in the half-finished fort La Saussaye's strong-box which contained all the papers and credentials of the French, he appropriated them and then, secure in the possession of these documents, he denounced La Saussaye as a trespasser and justified his attack on that ground. The French governor denied the charge and claimed to be acting under commissions from the crown. Argall, thereupon, demanded that the commissions be produced and since La Saussaye could not produce his authority, he was denounced as a pirate and the English were given full liberty to pillage the French ships and camp. Argall was severe with his prisoners, and at length, after two had been flogged, he reduced all to subordination. Some of the prisoners were taken to Jamestown, some were permitted to return to France. Father Biard and Quentin went to Jamestown, La Saussaye and Father Masse to France.

At Saint Sauveur the Englishmen pulled down the Jesuits' cross and razed the unfinished defenses. Thus, the earliest settlement of Mount Desert was blotted out. More than one and a half centuries were to elapse before a permanent settlement would be made up on its rock-bound shores.

MILITARY HISTORY

THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR

The military history of Mount Desert antedates that of any of the towns on the island, since it was not for several years after the Revolution closed that the Plantation of Mount Desert became a town.

It is recorded that a number of the residents of the island left their homes to join the Continental forces and to do their share toward the winning of the independence of the colonies. David Richardson served one month as a private; Jonathan Rodick served one month and eighteen days in Capt. Dan'l Sullivan's company, which went to Machias in 1777 and 1778. In the expedition against Majorbagaduce (Castine), in 1779, were: Levi Higgins, lieutenant; Elisha Cousins, sergeant; Timothy Smallidge, corporal; Israel Higgins, Daniel Richardson and Jabez Salisbury, privates. These men probably served two months.

In Captain Sullivan's company in the sixth regiment of militia, which went into service by order of Colonel John Allen in October, 1780, were: James Campbell, clerk; Jonathan Doane and Freeman Knowles, privates. Other Revolutionary soldiers were: Joseph Mayo, Ephraim Haynes, and Col. Cornelius Thompson, a resident of Thompson's Island, who was at one time during the war, captain of the privateer brig, Chase, and, also, an officer in the militia.

THE WAR OF 1812

The inhabitants of Mount Desert, like the residents of several other localities on the Maine coast, suffered greatly during the Second War with England from the depredations of the British. Capt. Amariah Leland, who was building a small vessel near Emery's Cove, was compelled by a British privateer to pay $500 or have his vessel burned. William Mason and Thomas Paine were fired at one day by the crew of an English barge, and Mason was mortally wounded. William Thompson, William Wasgatt, and Elisha Young were taken by the English to Halifax, where Wasgatt and Young were held for a time as prisoners of war, while Thompson was carried to England and imprisoned there until the war was over.

The Battle or Skirmish of Norwood's Cove was the most important event of the war so far as Mount Desert was concerned. It was in August, 1814, that the Tenedos, British sloop of war, sailed in through the Eastern Way and anchored between Bear and Sutton Islands. Immediately preparations were made by the islanders to resist attack. Two young men from Great Cranberry rowed over to Southwest Harbor and travelled all night to give the alarm to the people on Mount Desert. All through the night the mustering at the scene of action went on. Old and young joined for the common defense, even the aged Jacob Lurvey and John Richardson, veterans of the Revolution, coming out to take a hand in the fight.

The late Dr. Street, whose story of skirmish, which was published in the Northeast Harbor and Seal Harbor Herald of Sept. 19, 1905, is contained in his "History of Mount Desert," gives an account of it in these words:

"The battle proved to be short in duration and at very short range. In the early dawn of Tuesday, August 9, a twelve-oared launch, full of men, with a swivel-gun in the bows, left the warship and drew in toward Clark's Point. Another smaller barge followed. The combatants were near enough to converse, to chaff with and challenge each other before the skirmish began. The militia were in the dense thicket along the shore, but every now and then one of them would run out on the rocks, or warn the invaders that the woods were full of men and they would be routed. Especially when the form of the brave Captain Spurling was seen in the barge, an effort was made to save his life by urging the British to give up their undertaking. One of his sons, Robert, rushed out on the high rocks below the present Downs cottage. His plea was most earnest to have his father spared. The officer bade his oarsmen lay to their oars, and ordered the old captain to be crowded down in the bottom of the barge. There the soldiers walked over him, or on him, as best suited their mood, until he raised himself up, said he might as well die one way as another, and cried back to his son and the men on the shore, "Never mind me, Rob, I am an old man; but give it to these dashed Britishers as hard as you can." Through an opening in the thicket the British caught sight of a man coming up from the Point with a bag over his shoulders laden with bullets. It was Captain Nathan Clark. They fired at him, but missed the mark. "Better grease your dashed old muzzles and try again," was his retort. The militia fired from behind some natural breastworks covered with a thicket above. This enabled them to rest their guns, pick their men, at the same time to be themselves unseen. The reply from the barge's pivot-gun, though meant to be most sweeping and devastating, went wild, high overhead, breaking branches, hitting rocks, but wounding no one. Even the British musket fire, aimed at men behind trees on the south side of the cove, filled the trees with bullets, but hit nobody. Isaac Lurvey for years afterward showed the tree he stood behind, riddled with seventeen bullets above his head.

It soon became evident to the British commander, who had not yet really entered the cove, that his men were simply targets for the marksmen, who were invisible if not invulnerable, and that he had wholly underrated their capacity for defense, so he ordered his barges to draw off, with their killed and wounded. It was noticed that five instead of twelve were at the oars as they rowed away. As to the losses of the British, the only data we have is the testimony of two boys, who, like boys of to-day, were apt to be around when not wanted, using their eyes. These boys, sons of William Moore, living near the present site of the Burnham cottage on Sutton's Island, had gone aboard the Tenedos to sell raspberries. They were on board when the defeated barge came back with its dead. They saw seven lifeless bodies raised by tackles and slowly let down into the hold of the ship. On the American side the only damage was that Captain Samuel Hadlock of Little Cranberry had two fingers grazed by a bullet."

THE WAR OF THE REBELLION

The great struggle of the Rebellion was the true test of the spirit and patriotism of the people of the towns in this section of the North, and as in all the former struggles the citizens here were not found wanting. Scarcely had Fort Sumpter capitulated and the President's call for volunteers been received throughout the North than the names of men of Mount Desert were on the enlistment rolls, and the soldiers were ready to march to the front. Their acts of bravery were recorded on many a hard fought field during the four years' struggle. In field, in camp, in hospital, they showed their worth as men, and their bravery and heroism never has and never can be questioned.

The roll-call of the soldiers of the Civil War will be found in the history of each of the several towns. The lists, except a few additional names, were obtained from the files in the Adjutant-General's office at Augusta. In these lists will be found the names of many who are numbered with the dead, for very many of them lost their lives in the service of their country, and many others have since joined their comrades in the Great Unknown. It is not necessary here to recount in detail the services which these men rendered in the four long years of suffering and conflict. It is all familiar to the people of this town, sons and daughters, of the noble men who left their homes and loved ones to do their share for the cause of Liberty and Right. The people of this town knowing the record, glory in the fact that the response was ready and loyal, and that their fathers were not afraid to go forth to battle and, if necessary, to die. Let us but remember as we read the lists, that we owe all that we possess to them, and, let us linger a moment over the roll of the brave and true soldiers whose names are recorded here.

History of the Town of Mount Desert

Mount Desert, the oldest of the townships on Mount Desert Island, and the second among them in population and wealth, occupies the central part of the island, lying between Eden on the northeast and Tremont on the southwest. It originally embraced the entire island of Mount Desert, and the adjacent islands, and was incorporated a town, Feb. 17, 1789.

The principal villages are Northeast Harbor and Seal Harbor, both of which are celebrated summer resorts, Mount Desert (Somesville), and Sound Villages, at the head of Somes' Sound, Hall Quarry, noted for the production of granite, and Otter Creek, part of which is in Eden and part in Mount Desert.

Northeast Harbor and Seal Harbor enjoy the same steamer facilities as does Bar Harbor, while Mount Desert (small steamer also on the Sound) and Hall Quarry, are connected by stage with Bar Harbor, Southwest Harbor and Bass Harbor in Tremont. Mount Desert and Sound are connected by stage with Northeast Harbor. The population of the town in 1900 was 1600. It has since fallen off at Hall Quarry, but has increased at Northeast Harbor and Seal Harbor which are becoming more and more popular as vacation resorts. The valuation of Mount Desert is now about $1,000,000.

CHURCH HISTORY

Congregationalists

The Congregational Religious Society of Mount Desert was organized at Somesville, in 1840, that village having succeeded Southwest Harbor as the center of religious life. The parish embraced practically the whole island except Eden, and it included even Cranberry Isles. The meeting-house at Somesville was built in 1852.

The Congregational Church of Somesville was organized Dec. 21, 1876, with ten members drawn mainly from the First Church.

The first pastor of this church was Rev. A. R. Plumer, who served during the year 1877. Succeeding pastors have been: Revs. A. Redlon, 1879; Albert N. Jones, 1880-3; J. E. Swallow, 1884-6; H. R. McCartney, 1888, 1890; E. E. Newbert, 1891; Fred Baker, 1896; Frank W. Barker, 1897-8; Geo. E. Kinney, 1900-3. Rev. Elias A. Jenkins, the present pastor, is a graduate of the Bangor Theological Seminary. He came to the church in the summer of 1908.

Congregational work was begun at Seal Harbor by Rev. Charles Whittier of the Maine Missionary Society in 1887. A student preacher was engaged for the summer and he remained until January, when Rev. Alexander P. McDonald, a graduate of Bowdoin College and the Andover Theological Seminary, who had preached at North Waterford, East Stoneham and Wiscasset, was called to take charge. A parish was incorporated, and on June 6, 1901, a church of twelve members was organized. A meeting-house was erected at a cost of $6500. It was dedicated August 31, 1902.

A Congregational Church of twelve members was organized at Otter Creek, July 15, 1901, largely through the efforts of the Rev. Mr. McDonald and of the "Aid Society of Otter Creek." The meeting-house was first opened for services December 17, 1903. It was dedicated in the summer of 1904.

Episcopalians

In the summer of 1881, the Rt. Rev. William C. Doane, D.D., began to hold Episcopal services in his summer home at Northeast Harbor. In August of that year it was proposed that a chapel be erected, and a site was given for the purpose by Stephen Smallidge and Margaret Harrison Doane. Bequests from Mrs. Edward N. Perkins, who died January 28, 1882, and gifts from Mr. Perkins, made possible the rapid completion of the work, and July 23, 1882, Saint Mary's by the Sea was opened for worship. The chapel was consecrated a month later by Bishop Doane.

The church was renovated and enlarged on several occasions but in 1899 the accommodations had become so inadequate that it was decided to erect a new church, which should be of stone and larger. Bishop Doane gave the needed land and work was soon afterward begun. The new church, which is large and very beautiful, was consecrated in the summer of 1902.

The following clergymen have been pastors of the church: Revs. L. W. Fowler; Preston Barr, 1891; A. S. H. Winsor, 1892-5; Joseph R. Norwood, 1896, who, beginning in 1897, served as pastor at both Seal Harbor and Northeast Harbor; M. S. Hemenway, Northeast and Seal; E. T. Baird, present pastor.

At Seal Harbor, services were first held in May, 1886, when Bishop Neely held a meeting in the school-house. Rev. Wylls Rede conducted services through the summer, and in November, a mission under the name of St. Jude was organized and placed under the care of the minister at Northeast Harbor. A chapel was built which was opened for services in July of the following year, and consecrated two years later, August 29, 1889. In November, 1900, the mission was made independent of the church at Northeast Harbor, under the care of Rev. Miles Hemenway. In 1907, Mr. Hemenway had charge of the churches both at Seal and Northeast Harbors. He was succeeded in 1908 by Rev. E. J. Baird.

The Rev. C. B. Smith, D.D., of New York, conducted Episcopal services in the school-house on the Brown Mountain Road during several summer seasons, and in 1903, thanks to a gift from Mr. Giles Sargent, the kindness of Mr. C. D. Joy, who gave the use of his tools and labor of superintendence, and to contributions from permanent and summer residents, the Chapel of St. James was built in a beautiful grove overlooking Somes Sound.

Catholics

The earliest Catholic services in Mount Desert since the days when the French Jesuits came so full of hope and missionary zeal to preach the truths of the Christian religion to the Indians, were held in the Union meeting-house at Northeast Harbor. In 1895 a church was built with a seating capacity of 170, but this was enlarged in 1901 to accommodate a congregation of about five hundred. The Rev. J. D. O'Brien, pastor of Saint Sylvia's Church at Bar Harbor, supplies the church during the summer season.

Baptists

The pastors of the Baptist Church of Tremont had at times preached at Northeast Harbor, but no Baptist society was organized until April 8, 1893, when a church of twelve members was formed under the lead of Rev. A. F. Palmer. The Union meeting-house has served as a church, and the Baptists have had the use of it during the greater part of the year. On the 10th of November, 1893, a parish was incorporated and a parsonage was built.

The Baptist pastors at Northeast Harbor have been the following: Revs. A. F. Palmer, 1893-4; E. A. Cranston, 1897-9; Clarence Emery, 1900; E. F. Mitchell, 1901-3; Chas. Hargrove, 1905; E. E. Harris, 1906-7; and Charles Hargrove, who came in 1903 for a second pastorate, and who is still pastor of the church.

Elder Lemuel Norton organized a Free Baptist Church at Otter Creek, which enjoyed only a brief existence, becoming extinct prior to 1867.

Rev. William E. Fay, a colored evangelist, organized a "Christian Church" of twenty-five members at Otter Creek not long after the close of the Civil War.

A few years later, Rev. Andrew Gray came to Otter Creek, and by force of his strong personality wrought a great deal of good in that settlement.

A new Free Baptist Church was organized at Otter Creek in 1873, the membership of which at one time numbered forty-six. This, however, like the churches which had preceded it, in a few years became extinct.

PROFESSIONAL MEN

Dr. Kendall Kitteridge, probably the earliest physician on Mount Desert, was the son of Nehemiah Kitteridge of Billerica, Mass., and was born October 19, 1773. He married Sarah Whiting of Hollis, and came to Mount Desert in 1799. Ten children were born to them. Since there were no good carriage roads on the island until about 1827, Dr. Kitteridge attended to his large practice by travelling either by water or on horseback. He resided at Somesville, and continued in practice for nearly sixty years.

Dr. R. L. Grindle of Somesville graduated from New York University in 1868. He began practice in this town in 1872. He was joined, in 1873, by Dr. J. D. Parker, who remained until 1877, and in 1878 by Dr. A. C. Hagerthy, who practised here, however, only a brief time.

In 1902, Dr. H. E. Milliken came to remain until the following year.

In 1904, Dr. R. W. Wakefield and Dr. J. L. Grindle began practice in this town, but the former soon afterward removed to Bar Harbor, where he is now in practice.

Dr. Grindle, who is the son of Dr. R. L. and Flora Minkens Grindle, was born at Somesville in 1877. He prepared for college at Coburn Classical Institute, and graduated from the Medical School of Maine in 1903; coming shortly afterward to Northeast Harbor, where he still continues in practice.

Dr. Frank R. Ober, eldest son of O. M. and Josephine Roberts Ober of Northeast Harbor, was born June 1, 1881. He graduated in 1898, and from the Medical School of Tufts College in 1905. After a year spent in the Carney Hospital in South Boston, Mass., he came to this town, since which time he has been in practice at Northeast Harbor.

Jerome H. Knowles, Esq., who began the practice of law in this town in 1902, is the only member of the legal profession in active practice in Mount Desert. He resides at Northeast Harbor.

H. S. Richardson, who graduated from Bucksport Seminary in 1901, and from the Tufts Dental School in 1906, began the practice of dentistry at Northeast Harbor in 1908. He is still in practice.

THE JORDAN POND HOUSE

The Jordan Pond House, "an old-fashioned building of rustic construction with rooms especially adapted for the entertainment of visitors," was established by Mr. T. A. McIntire, the present proprietor, fourteen years ago. It is situated near the shores of Jordan Pond, a beautiful little lake which is set like a gem among the mountains, two miles from Seal Harbor.

The view which the visitor may obtain from the spacious verandas of the inn is one of the most charming among the wonderful beauties of Mount Desert. Not only may one look out upon the lake, and at the mountains, but it is possible to see plainly the waters of the ocean, as they sweep in to Seal and Northeast Harbors several miles to the south and southwest.

From a patronage for which 96 dinners were sufficient during the year when the inn was opened, the business has now become so large that twenty-four people are required to look after Mr. McIntire's interests, while more than 6000 dinners are now served each year. The house can now accommodate at dinner from two hundred to three hundred guests.

Among the several dining-rooms is one which is finished in birch bark and cedar. It contains a huge fire-place, built of massive rough stone and topped by an enormous stone mantel-piece, which is very unique and remarkably attractive. The "birch bark room" is a favorite with Mr. McIntire's guests, and is constantly in demand during the season.

The Jordan Pond House is situated, by trail, 6 miles from Bar Harbor, 2 from Seal Harbor, and  $2\frac{1}{2}$  from Northeast Harbor; by road, 9 miles from Bar Harbor, 2 from Seal, and 6 from Northeast. It is open from June 15 until early in October.

HISTORY OF EDEN

Eden, the largest of the four towns on the Island of Mount Desert, comprising in population more than one-half of the inhabitants of the island, and ranking first in both population and wealth among the municipalities of the County of Hancock, is situated on the northeastern side of Mount Desert, eleven miles from Ellsworth, the county seat. It is connected by boat with the terminus of the Mount Desert Branch of the Maine Central Railroad at Mt. Desert Ferry and by steamer with Seal Harbor, Northeast Harbor, Southwest Harbor and Manset on Mount Desert, also with Boston, Bangor, Winter Harbor and Rockland.

It formed, originally, a part of the township of Mount Desert, from which it was set off, and incorporated the 107th town in the District of Maine, Feb. 23, 1796.

The principal villages of the town are Bar Harbor, Hull's Cove, Salisbury Cove, West Eden and Eden, but of these, Bar Harbor is by far the most populous and important. For a period of nearly forty years it has ranked among the foremost watering places in America, and its fame as a resort of wealth and fashion, has long since become world-wide.

With the magnificent cottage-palaces, of the summer residents, the comfortable modern residences of the year-round inhabitants, its well-built business blocks, excellent high and lower schools and handsome churches, and with its well-kept streets and avenues, shaded by beautiful trees, Bar Harbor, as a residential village appeals to every lover of civic beauty as one of the most charming in our country.

The roads and drives in Eden are superb, and the scenery through which one passes on the Schooner Head road and Ocean Drive around Otter Cliff, between the Mountains on the road to Otter Creek, on the shore drive over Duckbrook Bridge to Hull's Cove, The Ovens, and other beautiful places along the north shore; over the hills and through the valleys to Green Lake nestling among the mountains, then beyond to Somesville, Town Hill or Indian Point, and to the countless other beautiful places of Eden can hardly be surpassed.

EARLY SETTLEMENT

The first settler in what is now the town of Eden was probably John Hamor, son of John and Sarah (Huff) Hamor of Arundel, now Kennebunkport, Maine, who came with his wife, Mary (Rodick) Hamor, to Hull's Cove in 1768. Mr. Hamor erected a dwelling at the cove, and lived there until the following summer, when he sailed away in his little vessel for Kennebunkport, never to be heard from again. He was the first chairman of the Board of Selectmen of the town of Mount Desert, a member of the first Board of Selectmen of Eden and lieutenant of militia. Ezra Young settled at Duck Brook before 1774. He was, perhaps, the foremost citizen of Mount Desert, held many of the most important offices in the towns of Mount Desert and Eden, serving as committeeman, captain and major of the militia, and as selectman.

The records of Mount Desert show that Ezra, son of Capt. Ezra and Constant Young, was born at Mount Desert, June 24, 1774; that Capt. Young's first daughter was born Nov. 28, 1782; and that Rossanna Young was married by her father, Capt. Young, to Isaac Mayo of Southwest Harbor. Capt. Ezra died June 12, 1812. His wife, Constant, died April 8, 1816.

Ezra Young, Jr., married Sara Hoges, by whom he had four children. He resided for a time at Bar Harbor.

Ebenezer Salisbury (Salsbury) and Mehitable, his wife, were probably the earliest settlers in what is now Bar Harbor. They came in 1776, and built a log house near the site of the Newport Hotel of today. They afterwards moved to the hill north of Eddy's Brook, and finally to Salisbury Cove, where they resided until they died in 1825.

EDEN CHURCH HISTORY

Baptist

The first meeting-house in the town of Eden, according to the Rev. Geo. E. Street's "History of Mount Desert," was erected at Hull's Cove in 1797. On July 5th of that year, as a result of a meeting held at the house of Levi Higgins at Hull's Cove, the Baptist church of Eden was organized, the oldest Baptist church in the county of Hancock, and second church on the island of Mount Desert. The thirty charter members of the church were: Nehemiah Higgins, David Higgins, Jr., Thomas Wasgatt, Jr., Elkanah Higgins, Ephraim Haynes, Israel Higgins, John Cousins, Peggy Thompson, Hannah Cousins, Pamela Young, Mercy Higgins, Hannah Wasgatt, 2d, Louis Cousins, Mercy Higgins, 2d, Polly Hamor, Joseph Cousins, Ezra Leland, John Thomas, Samuel Hadley, Oliver Thomas, Nicholas Thomas, Lydia Hadley, Hannah Leland, Sally Hamor, Tabitha Smallidge, Hannah Wasgatt, Jane Thomas, Margaret Stanwood, Hannah Stetson, Azubah Higgins. Elkanah Higgins and Nicholas Thomas were chosen deacons "on trial." John Thomas was chosen clerk; Elkanah Higgins, treasurer.

At the town meeting of September, 1799, Mr. Benjamin Downs was engaged to preach, and about a year and a half later, June 15, 1801, he was settled as pastor of the church. He stayed, however, but a short time.

Following the dismissal of Mr. Downs, there was no settled minister in Eden until 1814, when Samuel Swett came to remain four months, at the end of which time, he, too, was dismissed.

The next pastor, Elder Enoch Hunting, was called in 1816, and he was installed May 14, 1818. During Elder Hunting's pastorate, three revivals were held, and in 1829, the Eastern Maine Baptist Association met at Hull's Cove. Elder Hunting closed his long pastorate, August 30, 1832, when he resigned.

The "western" meeting-house near the Northeast Creek Bridge was built about the year 1823, when the town appropriated $350 for that purpose. Meetings were held in this building from 1824 to 1875, when the Baptist church at Salisbury's Cove was built.

The following is a list of the Baptist ministers who have had charge of the churches in this town since 1870: Rev. Mr. Wormwood, 1872; Revs. Wm. Corthell, 1873-7; A. F. Palmer, at Salisbury Cove, 1878-9; Wm. Corthell, 1879; J. F. Eveleth, 1880; Herbert Tilden, at Bar Harbor, 1880; A. F. Palmer, Bar Harbor, 1886-9; A. P. Fox, Salisbury Cove, 1897-8; T. F. White, Bar Harbor, 1897-8; C. S. McLearn, Bar Harbor, 1901-2; W. P. Richardson, Salisbury Cove, 1902-3; J. E. Whitmore, 1904-5; H. B. Tilden, Bar Harbor, 1905; Margaret Koch, Salisbury Cove and West Eden, 1907; Chas. F. McKoy, Bar Harbor, 1906 (present pastor).

The Baptists withdrew from the Union meeting-house at Bar Harbor in 1886, and, under the lead of Rev. A. J. Palmer, organized a church of nine members, purchased a lot on Ledge-law Avenue, and, in 1887, built the present meeting-house.

Methodist

The Rev. Rufus Bailey, who came to Mount Desert in 1828, and organized a Methodist class on Beech Hill, preached also at Bar Harbor. It was not until 1881, however, that a society was formed. In that year, Rev. James H. Mooers organized a class of thirteen members, and services were held in the Union meeting-house. Soon afterward, a lot on School street was purchased, on which a meeting-house was erected. This was dedicated August 12, 1883. The church was incorporated in March, 1886. In 1888, the meeting-house was removed to make way for the present brick church, which was built at a cost of $18,000. The church is named for Bishop Davis Wasgatt Clark, a native of Mount Desert and a famous Methodist churchman.

The pastors of the church have been: Revs. James H. Mooers, 1881-3; James W. Day, 1884; Winfred Baldwin, 1885-6; Herbert E. Frohock, 1887-9; Geo. G. Winslow, 1890-4; Rufus J. Wyckoff, 1895-6; C. B. Allen, 1897; Chas. E. Jones, Nov. 1898-April '99; Sylvanus L. Hanscom, 1899--'06; Warren A. Hanscom with S. L. Hanscom, '06. The present pastor, Rev. Carl N. Garland, who came to the church in 1907, studied at Bucksport Seminary, the University of Maine and Bangor Theological Seminary, and was pastor of the church at Westport in 1896, South Deer Isle, 1897-8, Penobscot, 1899-1901, Orland, 1902, Hampden, 1903-6, coming here at the close of his pastorate at Hampden.

Episcopal—Saint Savior's, Bar Harbor

The first Episcopal services on Mount Desert were held at Bar Harbor by the Rt. Rev. Henry A. Neely, Bishop of Maine, who visited Mount Desert in July, 1867. Under his leadership, supported by Mr. and Mrs. Gouverneur Morris Ogden, money was raised to build in 1878 a small stone chapel with a seating capacity of 325 people. In 1886, the growth of the summer population made necessary an enlargement of the edifice, and following this enlargement, gifts of great value were received.

The first rector of the church was the Rev. Christopher Starr Leffingwell. He was born in Ellsworth, Ohio, December 16, 1827, and graduated from Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., in 1854, and from Berkeley Divinity School, in 1856. After holding pastorates at Fairfield, Conn., Palmyra and Canandaigua, N. Y., and Gardiner, Me., he came to Bar Harbor in 1879. He served Saint Savior's for twenty years, and was pastor emeritus for three years longer, till his death in Washington, April 11, 1902.

The Rev. S. H. Greene, the present pastor of the church, was born at Chapel Hill, N. C., in 1849. The son of a bishop, it was but natural that he should choose the ministry for his vocation in life. He prepared for the ministry at the Berkeley Divinity School in Connecticut. He came to Saint Savior's nearly seven years ago.

Church of Our Father, Hull's Cove

This beautiful church was built in 1891, the gift of Miss Mary Rutherford Prime of New York, and her cousin, Miss Cornelia Prime of Huntington, N. Y., in memory of their fathers, the brothers, Rufus and Frederic Prime. The edifice is of granite and rural gothic in style. A gothic well stands by the path leading in from the building. The interior has been beautifully furnished as a result of many gifts, among which is the pipe organ given by the congregation in memory of the Rev. Mr. Leffingwell in 1902.

Catholic

Saint Sylvia's, on Kebo street, the first Catholic church at Bar Harbor, was opened for services in 1881. A site had been given for the edifice by Mr. De Grasse Fox in 1879, and the church had been built largely through the gifts of the permanent and summer residents, from whom the project met hearty support. The church was consecrated in August, 1882, by the Rt. Rev. James A. Healy, Bishop of Portland. A year or two later it was enlarged to double its former capacity.

The first pastor of the church was the Rev. Thomas Francis Butler, who supplied Bar Harbor from the church at Ellsworth. Father Butler was born in Ireland, was educated in the public schools of Boston and at Holy Cross College, and studied theology in the Seminary of St. Sulpice in Paris, where he was ordained to the priesthood by the Cardinal Archbishop. After spending a short time as curate in Portland, he was appointed, in the summer of 1880, pastor of Saint Joseph's church in Ellsworth. He continued as pastor of the Ellsworth and Bar Harbor churches until the autumn of 1894, when he went to Lewiston to become pastor of the important Saint Joseph's church in that city, where he is still located and held in the highest honor and esteem.

The Rev. James D. O'Brien, who succeeded to the Ellsworth and Bar Harbor churches in November, 1894, is also a native of Ireland. He received his education at Paris and at Rome, and was ordained to the priesthood in Montreal. A priest of remarkable personality, a skillful organizer, tireless in his efforts to promote the welfare of his parish, he has been the primary influence in the erection, on Mount Desert street and Ledgelawn avenue, of the magnificent new Saint Sylvia's church, which is one of the most beautiful in New England.

The church is now independent of the Ellsworth parish, and Father O'Brien has become resident pastor. A very valuable church property has been acquired for the future needs of the parish, and a parochial residence is now nearing completion. Saint Sylvia's has become one of the most important parishes in the diocese of Maine.

Congregational

The Bar Harbor Congregation church was formed May 30, 1883, with thirteen members. In the following year, a parsonage was bought and in 1889 the present stone church was built. The pipe organ, which was the gift mainly of Mrs. Thomas Hubbard of New York, was installed August 3, 1903.

The Congregational pastors in Eden have been the following: Revs. A. R. Plumer, 1877; A. J. McGown, 1884-5; J. Torrey, 1886-9; G. E. Freeman, 1891-4; Richard Owen, 1895-9, 1902, and A. M. McDonald, the present pastor, who graduated from Bowdoin College in 1891, Andover Theological Seminary, 1894, spent nine years in Jacksonville, Fla., and came to Bar Harbor in 1903.

Unitarian

The Unitarians in Bar Harbor, for a time held services in the Union meeting-house, but nearly a quarter century ago, they decided to build a church of their own. By a deed dated December 3, 1888, Miss Mary Shannon of Newton, Mass., gave a lot on Ledgelawn avenue to the American Unitarian Association, on which a beautiful church was erected, which was first occupied in June, 1889. This is used chiefly for summer services, but a society of year-round residents was organized in 1894, and winter services are occasionally held. There is no settled pastor.

Dr. Geo. A. Phillips was born in Orland, April 18, 1853, the son of Luther Ames and Livonia Phillips. After completing the course in the public and high schools, he fitted himself for college at the Eastern State Normal School in Castine, Maine. Entering upon the study of medicine, he graduated from the Medical Department of the University of the City of New York in 1882, and shortly after his graduation, began a professional career in Ellsworth, where he gained a large practice and established a reputation as a skillful practitioner. He moved to Bar Harbor about ten years ago and has acquired a large practice here. He is President of the Penobscot Medical Association, Vice President of the Maine Medical Association, and is also Consulting Physician to the Bangor General Hospital. Dr. Phillips has acquired much prominence outside of his profession, as a public speaker, delivering many notable addresses before the Maine Medical Association and before many public gatherings.

Dr. E. J. Morrison is a native of Mariaville. After completing his preparatory school education he attended the Philadelphia Dental College, where he graduated in 1888. He practised dentistry in Bar Harbor for ten years, but having determined to enter the medical profession, he gave up his dental practice, for the study of medicine, and graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Baltimore, Md., in 1898. Shortly afterward he returned to Bar Harbor, where he has since been in practice. Dr. Morrison is secretary of the Board of Pension Examiners and has recently been appointed by Governor Fernald, Medical Examiner for Hancock County.

Dr. Royal G. Higgins was born at Bar Harbor in 1867, and graduated from the Bucksport Seminary in 1889. He received his degree from Hahnemann College, Philadelphia, in 1892, and spent a year in the Hahnemann Hospital. He began practice at Bar Harbor in 1904. He is one of the Bar Harbor Hospital staff of physicians, a member of the Maine Medical Association, and is president of the Hancock County Medical Society.

Dr. J. H. Patten was born in Newport, Penobscot County, in 1862. He was educated at the University of Maine and the University of New York City, graduating from the former in 1882, and from the latter in 1886. Through his activity in various matters, Dr. Patten has become well known throughout the county.

Sproul's Restaurant, for years one of the landmarks of Bar Harbor, was first opened in 1869, in the building now occupied by Mr. Max Franklin, the merchant. The cafe became famous, and was known not only throughout the United States, but even in Europe. Hundreds of distinguished people were among the guests who were its patrons. It is very interesting to read the names in the old register which has been preserved and is still in the possession of Mr. and Mrs. Sproul.

History of Tremont and Southwest Harbor

EARLY SETTLEMENT

Stephen Richardson, a brother of James Richardson, one of the earliest settlers on Mount Desert, was of Scotch-Irish descent, his father having emigrated from Londonderry, Ireland, to Gloucester, Mass., in 1738. Stephen settled at what is now Crockett's Point on the west side of Bass Harbor. He was one of the foremost citizens of Mount Desert Island, and it was at his house that the first meeting of the plantation of Mount Desert was held, March 30, 1776. He represented the plantation in the Massachusetts General Court, and was a member of the first board of selectmen of Mount Desert.

Daniel Gott, a brother of Stephen Richardson's wife, settled near the Richardson family, and lived there probably until 1789, when he obtained a deed to the two islands which lie off Bass Harbor Head. He moved to the larger island, now known as Gott's, and lived there until his death, June 7, 1814. Many of his descendants are still residents of Gott's Island.

Thomas Richardson settled on the east side of Bass Harbor. He, too, was a prominent man in the settlement, and was a member of the first Committee of Correspondence of the plantation.

Ezra H. Dodge married a daughter of James Richardson, and settled at Dodge's Point, on the southern side of Seal Cove.

By the year 1784, William Gilley, Tyler Reed, and George Norman had settled near Norwood's Cove. Ebenezer Eaton, the first minister, Andrew Tucker, Samuel Bowden, Benj. Ward, Joshua Mayo, Wm. Grew, Nicholas Tucker, John Rute, Joseph Legro and Peter Dolliver had settled here also, all of them, probably, at Southwest Harbor. Joshua Norwood, Abraham Richardson and Peter Gott had settled on the east side of Bass Harbor, while on the west side, Stephen Richardson and Daniel Gott had been joined by Benj. Benson. Wm. Nutter and Enoch Wentworth were near Goose Cove; Wm. Heath, James Reed and George Butler, at Seal Cove, where Mr. Heath had a mill.

The Dix family settled early on Dix Point. Capt. Chas. Dix, of the firm of McKay & Dix, ship builders and owners, died about three years ago. The McKay & Dix cryolite fleet of eleven vessels was famous. It was at the McKay & Dix ship yard at Verona that the Roosevelt, Lieut. Peary's vessel was launched.

For this brief account of the early settlers of Tremont and Southwest Harbor, it may be well to reproduce a document which gives a genealogy of the Richardsons, who were the earliest settlers here, and an account of the association and inter-marriage of members of the family with the Gotts, who were early settlers here also. The descendants of these pioneers form a large part of the inhabitants of these towns. We are able to reproduce this document through the kindness of Mrs. Eben L. Richardson of Southwest Harbor.

THE RICHARDSON FAMILY

“In the earlier part of last century, two brothers, Stephen and Hugh Richardson, residing in the North of Ireland, being suspected of disloyalty to the Government, and Stephen having also incurred the hostility of the Montgomerys, an influential family living near Belfast, by having clandestinely married Jane Montgomery, a daughter of the family and an aunt of Gen. Richard Montgomery, who was killed at Quebec, they concluded to leave the country, and accordingly in Oct. 1738, they emigrated with their families to America; Hugh going to Barbadoes, and Stephen coming to Gloucester, Mass., where he located, and raised a large family, the youngest of which was not born until after the middle of the century; and where he and his wife probably died.

His family consisted of five sons: James, who was probably born before emigration, Stephen, who was born at sea, on the voyage to America, Thomas, Hugh and Elijah; and of two daughters, Patience and Charity. Their relative ages are not known, but the Family record, of one of James' daughters, shows that she was born in 1752, when Stephen was but fourteen years old, and is conclusive that James was his senior by several years and was probably the oldest of the family.

At the same time and intimately associated with the Richardson family in Gloucester, was the family of Daniel Gott, consisting of seven sons and daughters. As the result of that association the three Richardson brothers, James, Stephen, and Thomas, married respectively, Rachel, Elizabeth, and Margaret Gott, while two of the Gott brothers, William, and Peter, married the two Richardson sisters, Patience and Charity: Charity being then the widow of Kane, of whose first husband however nothing is known; and after Peter's death she married, as her third husband, and his second wife, Daniel Gott, Peter's elder brother. All, except the last of these marriages, occurred at Gloucester.

Nothing more is known of Hugh or Elijah, they probably died early.

In 1762, the first year after the settling of Mt. Desert Island by Abraham Somes, James Richardson moved to that Island, followed in a few years by all the Richardson and Gott families, who settled on Mt. Desert and the adjacent Islands; James settling at Somesville, which had already been located by Abraham Somes; Stephen and Thomas at Bass Harbor; William Gott at Mason's Point: and Peter Gott at Swan Island. Where Daniel Gott first located is not certain, but in 1789, having purchased from the State, what was then known as Little Plasentia Island, then unoccupied Public Domain, he made his home on that Island thereafter known by his name, and died there, July 7th, 1814.

On going to Mt. Desert, Stephen located at Somes Sound, but remained only a short time, when he moved to Bass Harbor, locating on the west side of the Harbor, at what was afterwards called Crockett's Point; where probably all of his children and many of his grand children were born; and where he and his wife probably passed all the remaining years of their lives. His house has, of course, long since gone out of existence, but after the lapse of more than a century, the debris of the cellar still remains. He also built the first mill at Bass Harbor and opened the first public road between Bass Harbor and Beech Hill.

From the public records, the Richardson brothers seem to have been quite prominent in local history from the commencement of the revolution, to the adoption of the Federal Constitution. Stephen Richardson's house was the usual place for public meetings, and James Richardson was always Clerk and Treasurer of those meetings, while Stephen and Thomas were always on public committees; on Oct. 8th, 1776, Stephen Richardson was chosen as the first Representative from Mt. Desert Island to the General Court (Legislature) of Massachusetts, and at the first Town meeting held April 6th, 1789, for organization under the new Constitution, all were elected to prominent official positions.

The records kept by James Richardson of the various public meetings are still preserved, although somewhat faded, and show him to have been a man of cultivation; and his brothers were probably equally so; while the immediate descendants of Stephen remember him as a man of marked ability.

When James or Thomas Richardson died, is not known, but Stephen 2d., after having nearly attained the allotted period of "three score years and ten", died in 1806, Sixty Eight years after he first saw light on the waters of the Atlantic in 1738. Charity died probably, early in the present Century, while Patience, after a pilgrimage of over four score years, died in 1827, and was buried at Fernald's Point.

Stephen's "Family record", as inscribed on the reverse of the Title Page of the New Testament in his Family Bible, is as follows:

"Stephen Richardson, Born October 23d. O. S. 1738.

Elizabeth Richardson, Born March 14th. O. S. 1736.

Stephen & Elizabeth Richardson, Married March 11th, N. S. 1762.

John Gott Richardson, 1st. Son, Born August 15th. 1764.

Deborah Richardson, 1st. Daughter, Born Dec'b'r 10th. 1765.

Elizabeth Richardson, 2d. Daughter, Born April 14th. 1767.

Stephen Richardson, 2d. Son, Born May 4th. 1768.

William Richardson, 3d. Son, Born May 27th. 1770.

Hannah Richardson, 3d. Daughter, Born July 2d. 1773.

Lucia Medicine Richardson, a Niece, Born May 7th. 1768.

Stephen and Elizabeth Richardson's Family Bible."

We have no "Family record" of either of the other brothers or sisters, but we have of several of their descendants, from which we gather the names of their children; as follows:

James, had Rachel, James, Daniel, David, George, Polly, Tamazin Jane, Rhoda, Judith, and Elisha, who left home.

Thomas, had Thomas, Pauh, Abram, Enoch, Polly, John, Moses.

Patience, had Rachel, & Eliab, Gott. Eliab b. '69, d. by accident '89. Comfort, Andrew, & Daniel, Tarr.

Charity, had Mary, Eunice, Margaret, John, Peter, Ruth, Lydia, & Patience. 3 d. young, and all b. between 1777. & 1799.

The foregoing, though brief, is believed to be a substantially correct synopsis of the family history and succession for three generations, embracing their first hundred years in America.

CHURCH ACCOUNT

Congregational

The first church on Mount Desert Island was formed October 17, 1792, when eight women and six men of Southwest Harbor and vicinity, under instructions from the Rev. Samuel McClintock of Greenland, N. H., organized the Mount Desert Congregational church. Two years later they were visited by an ordained minister, the Rev. Samuel Eaton of Harpswell, when they adopted a new covenant, and observed the Lord's Supper for the first time.

During the years between 1793 and 1823, Ebenezer Eaton supplied the church with preaching, though he had not at that time been ordained. About the year 1823, however, Mr. Eaton, then about the age of sixty-five, consented to ordination; and thenceforth, served the church regularly until 1832, and occasionally for two years afterward. He lived at Southwest Harbor for many years, but died at Sedgwick, June 1, 1841, at the age of eighty-seven years.

In 1799, the people of Mount Desert voted to build two meeting-houses, and to divide the town into two districts for the purpose; accordingly a meeting-house was erected on the road about half-way between Seal Cove and Somesville, and another at Manset in the town of Southwest Harbor. The latter meeting-house, which was located near the old Bass Harbor sled road, was never quite completed. It was torn down to furnish material for the newer white meeting-house, about the year 1828. The northern meeting-house, the interior of which was never finished, was burned in a forest fire early last century.

In 1831, Rev. George Brown came to assist Mr. Eaton in the ministerial duties, but he was retained only a short time.

The Rev. Micah W. Strickland was called to the church in 1834, the year of his graduation from the Bangor Theological Seminary. Mr. Strickland preached with success until 1841, when he closed his pastorate here. He died at Prentissvale, Pa., Feb. 13, 1884.

The incorporation of Tremont as a separate town caused the church at Southwest Harbor to limit its responsibility to the new town. The former name, designating the church as the first on the island, was retained, except that in 1888 the words "of Tremont" were added to indicate the field of its activity.

In 1899, the Union meeting-house at Southwest Harbor, built in 1885, and incorporated in 1888, became exclusively Congregational in usage.

The present pastor, Rev. Chas. W. Robinson, who came to the church July 18th of this year, is a native of Fitchburg, Mass., and a graduate of Boston University, class of 1896.

His early pastorates were spent in North and South Dakota, where he remained until about four years ago, when he came to Stonington, Me. At the close of his pastorate in Stonington, Mr. Robinson came here.

The following is a list of the Congregational pastors in Tremont and Southwest Harbor since 1870: Chas. Brown, 1871; A. R. Plumer, 1872-7; H. M. Perkins, 1873-4; H. Hathaway, 1875; A. N. Jones (Mt. Desert), 1881-2, 1884; Amos Redlon, 1885, 1887-9; T. J. Lewis, 1890-2; J. E. Bowman, 1894-5; Geo. N. Hefflon, 1896-'00; Frank Batchelder, 1901; Dean Walker, 1902-4; J. A. Lawrence, 1906-7.

Baptist

The "Mount Desert Baptist Church" was formed at the meeting-house near Pretty Marsh, Sept. 11, 1816. The original members numbered fourteen.

Elder Lemuel Norton, a native of Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard, became pastor of the church in 1820 and continued as such until 1828, when he left to preach the doctrines of the Free Will Baptists.

In 1832, Elder Elisha Bedell visited the church, and so stirred the people that a new interest was at once made manifest, an interest which added ninety-two members within less than two years. It was in that year that Rev. Calvin L. Cary began his pastorate of eleven years, during which time he served the church faithfully and well. During his pastorate the church membership increased to one hundred and thirty-one.

In 1837 a new meeting-house was built at Center to serve as a distinctively Baptist church. During the next few years, however, services were held very infrequently, and interest in the church declined until 1853, when Elder Cary returned to his former parishioners to give them a part of his time. Twelve men and eight women renewed covenant, and shortly afterward they were joined by forty others.

During the years which followed the church could command preaching only occasionally, and the several pastorates were of short duration. During this period, also, the membership and interest became strongest in the vicinity of Seal Cove, where meetings were held in the school-house.

The old meeting-house gradually fell into bad repair. The belfry was wrenched off and blown away in the gale of January 10, 1878. It was never replaced after that year.

In 1893, the name of the Baptist organization was changed to that of the Tremont Baptist church. In 1895 the society was incorporated. Rev. L. Y. Vinal at West Tremont was pastor from 1896 to 1898. Rev. H. L. Skillin was at Manset and Seal Cove in 1906.

In 1894 the members of the Baptist church living at Manset petitioned for permission to form a separate church. This request was not granted immediately, but the William King residence at Manset was purchased for a parsonage and, Dec. 9, 1897, a separate church was formed. This consisted of twenty-six members and is known as the Baptist church of Manset. Rev. C. P. Kittredge was pastor in 1899, Rev. Clarence Emery, 1901-4, and Rev. J. A. Thoms in 1908. Mr. Thoms was succeeded in June of this year (1909) by Rev. Ernest A. Grites, a recent graduate of the Gordon Bible Training School in Boston, Mass.

Methodist

The Methodist church at Southwest Harbor was organized about 1865. The meeting-house was built in 1889, and the parsonage in 1895. The following ministers have been pastors of the church: Revs. Benj. F. Stinson, b. Deer Isle, Jan. 18, 1812, pastor here, 1867-9, Tremont and Eden, 1875, and supply, several times, d. Tremont, Nov. 19, 1887; Joshua A. L. Rich, 1871; W. H. Crawford, 2d, b. Daniel H. Piper, 1897; Milledge T. Anderson, 1898; Frank W. Brooks, 1899-'01; Harry Hill, 1902-3; James B. Aldrich, 1904-5. Rev. O. G. Bernard, the present pastor, was born in Orland. He is a graduate of Bucksport Seminary and of Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J. He preached at Edmunds three years, and at Sullivan three years, coming to Southwest Harbor in 1906.

Methodist interests in the western part of Tremont were for many years under the care of pastors living at Southwest Harbor, but in 1888, West Tremont became a separate charge. In 1892, a church was organized and a hall was purchased for a meeting-house. Shortly after 1900, this hall was torn down, and the present meeting-house was built.

HISTORY OF CRANBERRY ISLES

EARLY SETTLEMENT

John Robertson, Isaac Bunker and Samuel Stanley were temporary settlers on Great Cranberry Island in 1762. The first permanent settler, however, on the large island was probably Benjamin Spurling, who came from Portsmouth, N. H., in 1768. He was the ancestor of the Spurlings in Cranberry Isles and the towns on Mount Desert. For a number of years he was the chief man on Great Cranberry. He was a ship owner and sea captain. He was a high-spirited man of great bravery, and his famous command to his son during the Battle of Norwood's Cove, when the British held him a prisoner in the bottom of one of their boats, has passed into history, "Never mind me, Rob, I am an old man; but give it to these dashed Britishers as hard as you can."

Aaron Bunker was one of the earliest settlers on the Cranberry Isles. His lot containing one hundred acres was laid out by John Peters, surveyor, in 1890.

John Stanley, who died in Great Cranberry in 1790, was the ancestor of many families of the Stanley name throughout Hancock county. His widow's lot of sixty-two acres was at the entrance of the Pool. John Stanley, Jr., son of John Stanley, was one of the first settlers on Little Cranberry.

Samuel Hadlock was, except John Stanley, the first permanent settler on Little Cranberry. He came to Mount Desert for the purpose of engaging in the lumber business, and took out much timber from the region around the upper and lower Hadlock Ponds above Asticou. His camps were burned, and he moved to Little Cranberry, where he started in the fishery trade. His will was the first one recorded in the Hancock County Probate Records. It was dated October 16, 1790, and proved August 29, 1791. His property was left to his son Samuel, of Cranberry Isles, who was appointed executor; to his daughter Polly, wife of John Manchester; his daughter, Lois Hadlock; his son, Jonathan; his daughter, Tryphosa, and his son Epes.

The following account of the Hadlock family is given in the late Dr. Street's History of Mount Desert:

"Samuel Hadlock the younger cleared a large tract and engaged successfully in farming, but his first money was gained by a fishing-trip on the Labrador coast. There he dried his fish and then proceeded with them to Spain in a schooner of forty-eight tons, making a successful voyage and very profitable sale of his cargo. He then built a store on the west side of the island at Hadlock's Cove, where he did a good business in general merchandise. He died on the island at the age of eighty-four years in 1854, and his wife, Sarah (Manchester), died in 1861, at the advanced age of ninety. Edwin, the youngest son of Samuel Hadlock, succeeded his father in business. He also built and commanded vessels, as had his father before him. The last vessel built at the island was named for Samuel Hadlock and commanded by Edwin for several years. She was a brigantine of 120 tons, and was finally wrecked off Cape Hatteras. The other sons of Samuel Hadlock were also seafaring men, and died or were lost at sea in distant parts of the world. His daughters married and moved away, excepting Abigail, who married Captain Samuel Spurling of Great Cranberry Island. Edwin died on the island in 1875, and his sons, William Edwin and Gilbert Theodore, then conducted the business on a larger scale. They greatly improved the wharves and buildings, and sent vessels to Labrador, Grand Banks, and other distant fishing grounds. They also engaged in mackerel and herring fishing nearer home.

Colonel William Edwin Hadlock, the oldest son of Edwin Hadlock, was born at Little Cranberry Island in 1834, and was educated in the Winthrop School of Boston and the Classical Institute of Yarmouth, Me. After some years of business life in Portland he returned to the island to engage with his father in the ship stores and fishing business established by his grand-father. He was elected to the legislature of Maine in 1861, and served as a member of the House in the session of 1862, and was then commissioned lieutenant-colonel of the 28th Regiment of Maine Infantry. After a year's service at the front, in which Colonel Hadlock distinguished himself for ability and personal bravery, he was obliged to retire from the army because of impaired health, and again resumed his business at Cranberry Isles. He was twice elected senator from Hancock County, and was chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs in the sessions of 1872 and 1873. In 1876 he was again elected to the House of Representatives. Colonel Hadlock has for many years maintained an influential position in the affairs of his native town, and to his enterprise is largely due the development of the island and village of Islesford.

Gilbert T. Hadlock, another son of Edwin, was one of the builders of the Life Saving Station established at Islesford in 1879, and served as the first keeper. Captain Hadlock held this position for several years, and then resigned to establish a steamboat route among the islands. He holds a medal from the government for heroic service in the saving of life. Captain Franklin Stanley succeeded Captain Hadlock as commander of the Life Saving Station, and with his efficient crew of hardy surfmen has prevented many wrecks and brought much credit to the service. Harvey Denning, the youngest son of Edwin Hadlock, chose the legal profession, and was employed in important cases in Bucksport and Portland, and later in Boston, New York, and Washington. He was a man of marked personality, who died suddenly in Boston, in the height of power, on the 13th of April, 1897."

Geo. R. Hadlock, Esq., son of Capt. Gilbert T. Hadlock of Islesford, is the only lawyer in the town of Cranberry Isles. He was born at Islesford, July 21, 1880. He prepared for college at Bucksport Seminary, studied law at the University of Maine School of Law in Bangor, and took the examinations for the bar from the office of Messrs. Heath and Andrews, attorneys, of Augusta. He served as representative to the 73d Legislature of Maine. He is postmaster at Islesford, where he carries on his practice.

The earliest settlers on Sutton's Island were Joseph Lancaster of Sullivan and Isaac Richardson, son of James Richardson of Mount Desert.

William and Joseph Moore were early settlers, also. William later moved to Bear Island and was the first keeper of the Bear Island light. Sutton, from whom the island now takes its name, was, perhaps, a squatter. It is thought that he removed to the Maritime Provinces.

William Gilley, who settled on Baker's Island in 1812, became keeper of the light-house which was built there in 1828. He came with his wife, Hannah Lurvey and three little children, from Norwood's Cove, where he had settled prior to 1785. Mrs. Gilley was the daughter of Jacob Lurvey, a native of Gloucester, Mass., and a soldier of the Revolution, who had married Hannah Boynton of Byfield, Mass., and settled on Mount Desert in the early years of the plantation. Mrs. Gilley was one of ten children, whose descendants are still numerous in Southwest Harbor and vicinity.

Twelve children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Gilley, and there were fifty-eight grand children.

Mr. Gilley continued as light keeper on Baker's Island until 1849, shortly after which time he went to live on Great Duck Island. Mrs. Gilley spent her old age with one of her daughters on Little Cranberry. She died at the age of sixty-nine years. Mr. Gilley lived to be ninety-two. He spent his declining years with his son William, on Baker's Island.

In the summer of 1808, John Clement came to Little Cranberry to make barrels for Captain Hadlock, whose fish business had grown to large proportions. Mr. Clement was a cooper of Scotch descent, who had come with his wife, Deborah Burns, from Haverhill, Mass., to the Penobscot in 1795, and had lived for a time at Oldtown and Bucksport, before coming here. He moved to Seal Harbor in June, 1809, and lived there for a number of years, carrying on an important cooperage business. His descendants are leading citizens of Mount Desert.

On March 16, 1830, the two Cranberry Islands, with Sutton's, Baker's, and Bear Islands, were set off from Mount Desert, and incorporated into a town by the name of Cranberry Isles. Samuel Hadlock, Enoch Spurling, and Joseph Moore were chosen the first Board of Selectmen.

CHURCH ACCOUNT

The people of Cranberry Isles were for many years faithful attendants at divine worship in the old "Southern" meeting-house near Southwest Harbor, and when the services were held in the meeting-house near Pretty Marsh or in the Methodist meeting-house on Beech Hill, many of them would come over from the islands on Sunday, and, leaving their boats, would walk miles to the appointed place on foot. They were, indeed, men and women of deep religious convictions and unflinching devotion to duty.

Occasionally, meetings were held on one of the islands, as when Elder Norton preached on Great Cranberry the doctrine of the Free Will Baptists. In later years, the Methodist ministers on Mount Desert included Cranberry Isles in their circuits, until about 1889, among those who preached here being: Revs. B. F. Stinson, C. A. Crawford, J. Rich, F. Hathaway, C. Rogers, J. H. Bowker, and J. S. Allen; the first named, the Rev. Mr. Stinson, having held meetings here for a number of years.

In 1860 a union sewing circle of thirty-eight members was formed among the women on Great Cranberry to raise money with which to build a meeting-house. The house was erected, but dissension arose in the circle, and sixteen members seceded in May, 1862, to form a new circle, which disbanded, however, two years later. The meeting-house was dedicated Sept. 11, 1866, and services were held in it occasionally during the next ten years.

In 1893, Rev. Charles Whittier, of Orono, Secretary of the Maine Missionary Society (Congregational), visited the islands to conduct religious services. He was soon followed by Rev. Charles E. Harwood, of Orleans, Mass., whose death, March 22, 1894, deprived the people here of a pastor whom they deeply loved.

In the fall of 1897, Rev. Charles N. Davie, of Hyde Park,

Mass., took up the work, and on June 25, 1899, the Congregational church of Cranberry Isles was organized at the Union meeting-house. The following year, the Islesford Congregational society was organized to build and maintain a house of worship on Little Cranberry. The meeting-house was opened for services in 1901.

The Rev. Mr. Davie preached in this town until 1895. He was succeeded by Rev. A. P. McDonald, now of Bar Harbor, who supplied the church in 1906 and 1907.

Rev. Charlton B. Boles, editor of the Bar Harbor Record and Life, has supplied the people of the Cranberry Isles with preaching since 1908.

THE BERNARD GRANTS

On February 27, 1762, the General Court of Massachusetts made a grant to Governor Francis Bernard of one-half of the island of Mount Desert. In September of that same year, the Governor visited the island to view his new possessions. The Journal of his voyage may prove of interest. It reads as follows:

“September 28th. 1762. I went on board the sloop Massachusetts lying off Castle William in Boston Bay at 5 p.m., weighed anchor, and with wind southeast passed Deer Island on the left.

“Sept. 29. Morning hazy. Passed Cape Ann by reckoning at 5 a.m., stood for Portsmouth, looked for Isles of Shoals. A thick fog arose, bore out to sea, keeping a good offing to avoid rock called Boone Island Ledge. Saw it two miles distant at 2 p.m. Weather cleared up, a fresh gale arose from south to east, bore for Cape Porpoise with all the sail we could set, passed into harbour in narrow channel between frightful rocks and came to anchor at four o'clock. Found several fishermen there who had put in for shelter who supplied us with excellent fish for our dinner. Night windy and rainy, lay very quiet though there was a great storm at sea.

“Sept. 30. Morning hazy: cleared up. At 3 a.m. went out with small breeze at northwest, which failing in the narrow passage we were in danger of being flung upon the rocks, but the breeze freshening carried us out. Very little wind and great rowl of sea: put out lines and caught some cod and haddock. At noon a fresh breeze arose from West. Course East, Northeast, passed Wood Islands, Cape Elizabeth, Segwin Island, wind fair, but a great swell of sea. At 6, altered our course to East by North, stood for Monhiggon Island. Breeze freshened about midnight.

“Oct. 1. At daybreak entered Penobscot Bay: passed the Musselridges and the Owl’s head on the left, and Fox Island on the right. Between Fox Islands saw Mt. Desert hills at near 30 miles distant. Passed Long Island on the left. At the end thereof saw Ft. Pownall at six miles distant. A fresh gale from the Northwest, Anchored at 11. The Fort saluted us with eleven guns, we returned seven guns. Went on shore, dined at the Fort, spent the afternoon reconnoitering the country. Went on board in the evening.

“Oct. 2. Weighed anchor at 7 a.m. Fresh gale from the Northwest; passed by many islands on the right, which with the continent on the left formed many pleasant sounds and bays. Came to Neskeag Point, thirty miles from Ft. Pownall. Found several vessels there, among which was schooner with my surveyors on board, who left Boston five days before me. Took them on board and with a pilot proceeded for Mount desart. Arrived there at 3 o’clock, but the wind being against us we were two hours turning into the harbor. At first we came into a spacious bay formed by land of the great island on the left and of the Cranberry islands on the right. Toward the end of this bay, which we call the Great Harbour, we turned into a smaller bay called the southwest harbour. This last is about a mile long and three fourths of a mile wide. On the north side of it is a narrow opening to a river or sound which runs into the island eight miles and is visible in a straight line with uneven shores for nearly the whole length. We anchored about the middle of the Southwest Harbour about 5 p.m.

“Oct. 3. After breakfast went on shore at the head of the bay and went into the woods by a compass line for about half a mile. Found a path which led back to the Harbour. This proved to be a passage to the salt marshes. In the afternoon some people came on board, who informed us that four families were settled upon one of the Cranberry islands, and two families at the head of the river, eight miles from our station.

“Oct. 4. We formed two sets of surveyors. I and Lieutenant Miller took charge of the one, and Mr. Jones, my surveyor, had the charge of the other. We began at a point at the head of the South West Harbour, proceeded in different courses, and surveyed the whole harbour except some part on the south side.

“Oct. 5. It rained all the morning. We compared our observations and protracted the survey; in the afternoon surveyed a cove in the North River.

“Oct. 6. I and Lieut. Miller surveyed the remainder of the South West Harbour and a considerable part of the Great Harbour. Mr. Jones traced and measured the path to the Bass Bay Creek and found there many haycocks. In the afternoon we made some general observations and corrected our former surveys. The gunners had good luck, plenty of duck, teal, partridge, etc.

“Oct. 7. Took an observation of the sunrising. Went up the river, a fine channel having several openings and bays of different breadths from a mile to a quarter of a mile in breadth. We passed through several hills covered with wood of different sorts. In some places the rocks were almost perpendicular to a great height. The general course of this river is North, 5 degrees east, and it is not less than eight miles long in a straight line. At the end of it we turned into a bay, and there saw a settlement in a lesser bay. We went on shore and into Somes' log house, found it neat and convenient, though not quite furnished, and in it a notable woman with four pretty girls, clean and orderly. Near it were many fish drying there. From there we went to a beaver pond where we had an opportunity to observe the artificialness of their dams and their manner of cutting down trees to make them. We returned to our sloop about four o'clock; it must be eight miles distant. The gunners brought in plenty of ducks and partridges.

"Oct. 8. We observed sunrising but could not take his amplitude by reason of clouds near the horizon. Mr. Miller surveyed the island on the east side of the river. Mr. Jones ran the base line of the intended township. I went through the woods to the creek of Bass Bay. We went about a mile on the salt meadow, found it fine, the hay remaining there good, and the creek a pretty rivulet capable of receiving considerable vessels. The meadow on each side being a furlong or two wide, and the upland having a gentle decline to it. In the afternoon Mr. Jones finished his line and we gathered various plants in the woods. In the evening I received several persons on board proposing to be settlers, and it was resolved to sail the next morning if the wind would permit.

"Oct. 9. At half after eight we weighed anchor; stood for the sea in a course South, Southwest, through several islands; thence by course West by South to Holt Island [Isle au Haut], ten leagues from Mt. Desert Harbour. At half past one wind fell to a fair breeze; passed Martinicus Island at 5, Metennick Island at 12; bright, fine, and calm.

"Oct. 10. Sloop rolled very much till 5. When passing Segwin Island a fresh breeze came from Northeast. Arrived at Falmouth channel half after eight, just twenty-four hours from Mt. desert. rained hard. We came to anchor at Falmouth half after ten. I went on shore, dined at Col. Waldo's and lay there.

"Oct. 11. We went about the town, a very growing place, some fine houses, three building, many vessels, among which were some ships upon the stocks. Were saluted by the Fort with five guns and by a ship in the harbor with seven. Our sloop returned five guns. We dined at Col. Waldo's, slept at Capt. Rosses and went on board at half past ten.

"Oct. 12. We weighed anchor at half past eight, saluted the town with five guns, kept within sight of the shore all the way, and anchored near the Fort island in Piscataway about three miles from Portsmouth at five o'clock. The Fort hailed us to know if I was on board. At six Gov. Wentworth's barge came alongside to carry me to his house about three miles from the sloop and two from Portsmouth.

"Oct. 13. I went to Portsmouth in my own boat, the boats crew being in their uniform of red faced with blue; was received at the wharf by several gentlemen and conducted to Mr. Wentworth's house. At 3, Mrs. Bernard arrived in the charriot.

"Oct. 14. We passed an agreeable day at Portsmouth. The 15th, set out in the charriot for Boston."

The General Court of Massachusetts, on June 23, 1785, passed the following resolve:

"Whereas, John Bernard of Bath, in the County of Lincoln, hath produced to this Court ample testimony of the uniform consistence and propriety of his political conduct previous to, during and since the late war, and whereas the estate of his father, Sir Francis Bernard, deceased, has been confiscated, to wit, the Island of Mt. Desart which was by the last will and testament of said deceased made previous to said confiscation, devised to said John, . . . and this Court viewing the conduct of said John as meretorious and commiserating his peculiar situation, and he having petitioned for a grant of the island aforesaid, which this court considers in a degree reasonable, therefore resolved, that one moiety, or half part of the island of Mont Desart be and hereby is granted, and from the passing of this resolve shall ensure to the said John Bernard his heirs and assigns forever, to hold in fee simple, provided that said John shall convey to each person now in possession of lands, which may be a division of the aforesaid island, assigns to said John, such quantity thereof and upon such terms as the committee appointed by a resolve of the General Court passed Oct. 28, 1783, shall direct within eighteen months from the passing of the resolve."

SIEUR DE LA MOTHE CADILLAC GRANT

THE DE GREGOIRE GRANT

In 1876, Monsieur Bartolemyde Gregoire, and his wife, Maria Theresa, presented to the General Court of Massachusetts a petition in which they laid claim to Mount Desert on account of the old French grant to Mme. de Gregoire's grandfather, the Sieur de Cadillac. The following resolution was passed by the Legislature:

In Senate June 29, 1787. Whereas it appears to this court, that the land, claimed by Monsieur and Madame De. Gregoire, as described in their petition, were in April, 1691, granted to Monsieur De. La. Motte Cadillac, by his late most Christian majesty Louis 14th, to hold to him as an estate of inheritance, and that said Madame De Gregoire, his granddaughter and direct heir at law of said De. La. Motte Cadillac, but whereas by long paper of possession, the legal title to the said lands under the said grant is lost to the heirs at law of the said Monsieur De. La. Motte Cadillac, and the Monsieur and Madame De. Gregoire have not any interest or estate now remaining therein but through the liberality and generosity of this court which are not hereafter to be drawn into precedent, and whereas it is the disposition of the court to cultivate a mutual confidence and union between the subjects of his most Christian Majesty and the citizens of this state and to cement that confidence and union by every act of the most liberal justice not repugnant to the rights of their own citizens. It is therefore resolved that there be and hereby is granted to the said Monsieur and Madame De. Gregoire, all such parts and parcels of Island of Mount Desert and the other Islands and tracts of land particularly described in the grant or patent of his late most Christian Majesty Louis 14, to said Monsieur De. La. Motte Cadillac, which now remains the property of this commonwealth, whether by original right, cession, confiscation or forfeiture, to hold all the aforesaid parts and parcels of the said lands and Islands to them, the said Monsieur and Madame De Gregoire, their heirs and assigns forever, provided however that the committee for the sale of eastern lands be and they hereby are authorized and fully empowered to quiet to all or any possessors or claimers to the title of any parts of the lands herein described, all such parts and parcels thereof as they the said committee shall think necessary and expedient, and on such considerations and conditions as they the said committee shall judge equitable and just under all circumstances, conformable to the precedents heretofore established with regard to settlers.

CENSUS OF EDEN

The year-round population of the towns included in this book has been arranged in families where that arrangement has been possible. In addition to the resident living members, the names of the non-resident members are included. It should be borne in mind that this plan does not include the names of all former residents of a town, as the names of non-residents appear only when one or both of the parents are still living in the town. After the name of each non-resident will be found the present address, when such address has been given to us. Non-residents are indicated by the (*).

The married lady's maiden name appears in parentheses and when a daughter in a family has married, her name taken in marriage appears after her given name in parentheses, the name preceded by a small m, thus: (m).

Following the names of the population appear the occupations. To designate these we have used the more common abbreviations and contractions, as follows: Farmer—far; carpenter—car; railroad service—R R ser; student, a member of
